Economic Development and policy ECON 3784-001 Fall 2010 Professor Akacem Monday 5:00:7:30 p.m. HUMN 135 Office: Econ 216 Office hours: Monday 3:00 to 4:50 p.m. or by appointment

The course will have a home in CuLearn and can be accessed at: http://Culearn.colorado.edu

Please Note: Leave your laptops at home. I generally do not encourage their use in class. If you have a documented need for them, please do see me. Otherwise, the evidence shows that these are used for things that have nothing to do with class and they distract others. The same goes for cell phones and texting. There will be zero tolerance for their use.

Email: Please email me at: akacem@colorado.edu if you need to reach me. Generally speaking, it is much easier to come to my office and or right after or before class if times allows. Avoid messages such as "I missed class, what did I miss". If you do miss, make sure and get the notes from another student. When sending an email message, please do include a subject such as our class, question etc... Messages without anything on the subject line will not be answered. We get to much spam so please help by simply adding something on the subject line.

Required Books:

Michael P. Todaro and Stephen C. Smith Economic Development, Ninth Edition, 2005, Addison Wesley

You are welcome to buy the latest edition if you wish. The booksto

The Wall Street Journal http://www.wsj.com The Financial Times http://www.ft.com

Purpose of the Course:

The purpose of the course is to acquaint the student with the major issues in development economics and policies. By the end of the course the student should be acquainted with most of the major issues in economic development policy and what both developing countries and international institutions are doing to confront the major constraints facing poor countries.

Schedule of Readings and Topics:

Tentative Schedule. The class meets once a week for two and half hours. The outline below is tentative and may change somewhat depending on the pace of the class and case studies shown. Please consult the calendar within CuLearn for updates and stay informed through the class home page. The material covered in class may be more than what your outline shows.

A great number of the readings listed below are short pieces from Finance and Development (http://www.imf.org/external/pubs/ft/fandd/fda.htm). I highly recommend this publication which stresses policy aspects of economic development and may be relevant to other courses that you are taking.
